as 'very unrealistic' about France's role in postwar control of Germany and declared that though 'France had not done much fighting in the war, yet De Gaulle has demanded equal rights with the Soviets, the British and the Americans, who have done the fighting.'

"President Roosevelt did not take issue with Stalin on De Gaulle. The President had great admiration for France, but he did not admire De Gaulle..."

Excerpts from the diary of Henry L. Stimson, World War II secretary of war:

"Since 1940 the general has consistently behaved with an arrogance and touchiness that were not pleasant to any of the Anglo-Americans. ... In North Africa his behavior had been consistently annoying, and it was apparent that he had inextricably confused the cause of France with the cause of General De Gaulle as a latter-day Joan of Arc.

"To Secretary (of State Cordell) Hull, whose sensitive pride had been deeply aroused by unjustified and violent attacks on American policy toward Vichy, the very mention of De Gaulle was enough to produce an outburst of skillful Tennessee denunciation, and to the President, De Gaulle was a narrow-minded French zealot with too much ambition for his own good and some rather dubious views on democracy."

Truman in "Year of Decisions," 1955:

"De Gaulle was a man of dedicated courage who had rendered important services to France in 1940 at a time when French morale had hit bottom. The desire of the French people to regain something of their lost power and prestige was understandable, and Americans found it easy to sympathize with them. De Gaulle's methods of championing French national causes, however, were not always along peaceful lines, and his tendency to use force to press national claims made for difficult situations."

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery in "The Path to Leadership," 1961:

"In my opinion there is only one great national leader in the Western world today—General De Gaulle. He has vision, political courage, tenacity and the ability of decision. ... He is most certainly a triton among a multitude of minnows in the Western world. I have a tremendous admiration for him. He is a great man."

Churchill in "The Hinge of Fate," 1950:

"Certainly I had continuous difficulties and many sharp antagonisms with him. There was, however, a dominant element in our relationship. I could not regard him as representing captive and prostrate France, nor indeed the France that had a right to decide freely the future for herself. I knew he was no friend of England. But I always recognized in him the spirit and conception which, across the pages of history, the word 'France' would ever proclaim. I understood and admired, while I resented, his arrogant

key. There were reports last month, which the administration never confirmed publicly, of a secret U.S.-Russian understanding in which the Soviets agreed to stop their activities at Cienfuegos.

The White House hedged against saying straight out a sub base was being built until the day before last week's election. Then communications director Herbert Klein said, "There is no question but that they tried to build a submarine base." He added, however, the Russians had halted construction and removed all equipment after the administration applied "strong but quiet diplomacy."

But two Russian barges and other equipment brought into Cienfuegos in September remain in the harbor. The tug and sub tender, which would play a key role in a submarine support facility, were reported Monday to be within a day's cruise of the harbor.

When the two ships left Cienfuegos on Cuba's southern coast Oct. 13, the Pentagon said it was less likely the Russians were building a base.

Nixon Thinks Senate Critics Under Gun

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon believes the psychological impact of the 1970 elections will render the position of his Senate critics more difficult. He foresees criticism of his foreign policy declining in volume and easing in tone, partly because of the election defeat of two vehement critics, partly because he says the end is in sight in the South Vietnam war.

Nixon said he now enjoys a close but fairly decisive Senate margin on foreign and defense issues, and other senators may therefore be reluctant to appear obstructionist.

He said it will be harder to oppose him in the new Senate.

Nixon gave that analysis last Thursday in a 90-minute interview with nine Washington columnists.

They were not permitted to quote him directly in accounts of that conversation, published Monday.

The President told them he believes the psychological impact of the defeats of Sens. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., Albert Gore, D-Tenn., and Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., will have an effect on members of the Senate.

Goodell was defeated by a conservative who had White House support; Gore and Tydings were ousted by Republican challengers. Goodell and Gore have been among the more vehement critics of Nixon policy in Southeast Asia.

In suggesting that their defeats would not be forgotten by the men they leave behind, Nixon mentioned Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.

The President indicated he anticipates support from Percy on the critical decisions.

Percy will be up for re-election in 1972. His home-state party is generally conservative; his record is generally moderate to liberal.

Nixon said he thinks Percy may have a different attitude on critical decisions in the new Congress. The lineup of 19 Republican senators whose terms expire after the 1972 elections includes others who have had their differences with the Nixon administration: Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky are on the list.

Nixon said as American involvement in Vietnam draws nearer an end, liberal Republicans such as Cooper, Percy, Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland and William Saxbe of Ohio will be closer to the administration than before.

He said his personal relationships with all those men are excellent, and they will likely be among his strongest supporters on domestic matters, perhaps stronger than some who support him on matters of defense.

Nixon also defended the campaign performance of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, while refusing to discuss the possible makeup of the GOP ticket in 1972. He said that would be presumptuous and premature.

But Nixon said he personally had been through what he called

Court Likely to Get War Issue Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unless the Vietnam war comes to an unexpected, abrupt end, it is certain to envelop the Supreme Court in its shadow again despite the court's latest refusal to consider an antiwar case.

The court's 6-3 decision Monday against hearing Massachusetts' suit seeking a ruling on the war's legality had firm roots in legal history but nonetheless bore indications the matter hasn't ended.

The fact that three justices wanted the case heard shows a growth of concern over legal issues involving the war. At the start, Justice William O. Douglas stood alone in insisting the court answer legal questions raised by the undeclared war.

He was later joined by Potter Stewart, a traditionalist and noticeably wary of legal departures. Monday, another traditionalist, Justice John M. Harlan, supported Douglas and Stewart in seeking a hearing for the Massachusetts case.

Actually, the six other court members—Chief Justice Warren O. Burger and Justices Hugo Black, Byron White, Thurgood Marshall, Harry A. Blackmun and William J. Brennan Jr.—were moot on the constitutionality of the war.

Their decision simply noted the request for a hearing, made nearly four months ago, had been turned down. There was not other comment.

Of the three dissenters, Stewart and Harlan said only that the court should have heard the case to see if a ruling is legally proper. Douglas gave his views at length.

The 72-year-old justice answered point by point the argument of Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and other Nixon administration officials.

Almost scoldingly, Douglas said the rationale in cases such as this is "that government cannot take life, liberty or property of the individual and escape adjudication by the courts of the legality of its action."

the "dump the vice president" business, and he thought Agnew had performed effectively during the campaign.

Bumpers Lists Spending in Campaign

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Additional campaign expenses of $88,755.82 have been reported by Gov.-elect Dale Bumpers. Bumpers had previously reported expenditures of $97,796.11.

The expenditure reports, filed in accordance with the Arkansas Election Code, were made public by J. W. "Buddy" Benfield of England, state secretary of the Democratic party.

Bumpers, 45, won the Democratic party gubernatorial nomination and defeated Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, the Republican nominee for a third term, in last Tuesday's general election.

Rockefeller and the Republican party have refused to make public the reports filed by their candidates.

The first report by Bumpers covered the campaign up through the first primary on Aug. 25. Bumpers ran second in that race to former Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

From the first primary to the Sept. 8 runoff, won by Bumpers, the Democratic nominee had additional expenses of $88,755.82, making his grand total through the runoff $186,551.93. The report covering expenses from the first primary through the runoff was made public Monday.

Democrats have taken the position that the reports are public record. Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell, chief author of the Election Code, said he never considered the reports anything but public.

Benfield's GOP counterpart, Howard Vance of Jonesboro, refused to follow Benfield's example, however, and the Republicans have not allowed newsmen to look at the reports of any GOP candidate.

Two Republican office-seekers, gubernatorial losers Lester L. Gibbs and James "Uncle Mac" MacKrell, both of North Little Rock, made their own reports public, but Rockefeller wouldn't reveal his.

Faubus' report indicates that the ex-governor spent a good deal less than Bumpers through the Sept. 8 runoff.

The report by Faubus lists total expenditures of $131,275.80 for the first and second primaries, with the bulk of the sum, $72,508.10, listed for advertising.

Bumpers has sent letters to advertising media asking that he be advised of expenditures made in his behalf by others. He said he hoped to be able to account for money that was spent without his knowledge.

Faubus went so far as to estimate the value of services rendered to him at no charge. He estimated an expenditure of $1,500 for three airplane trips for which he was not charged. He also estimated an expenditure of $1,500 for the use of automobiles and a sound truck, $450 for the use of a dwelling and $300 for the use of household appliances donated temporarily to him during his stay in Little Rock.

The other six Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls, all eliminated in the first primary, had previously reported their expenditures, which Benfield made public.

Only one candidate, Hayes C. McClerkin of Texarkana, reported greater expenditures than Bumpers up to the Aug. 25 primary. McClerkin's total was $131,213.22. That was only $62.58 less than what Faubus reported through Sept. 8.

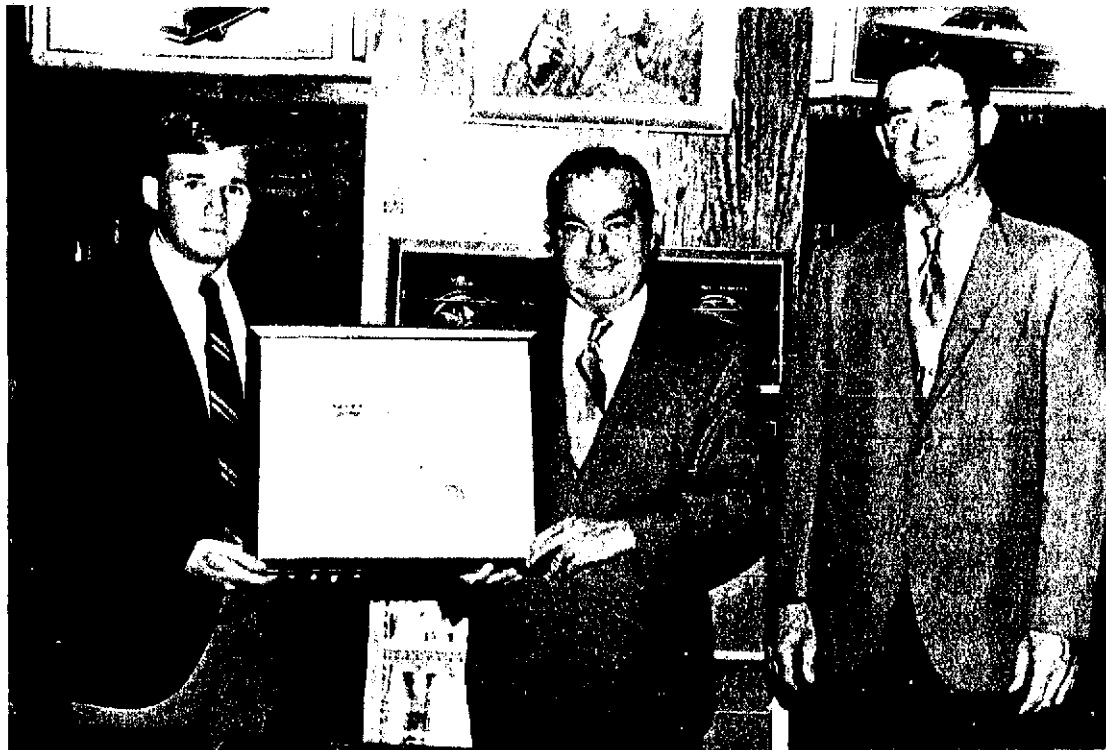

Mena Plans Emergency Gas Supply

MENA, Ark. (AP) — The city of Mena plans to have an emergency gas supply system in operation by Jan. 1.

During the past few winters, Mena has experienced a shortage of gas during extremely cold weather. At one time last January, when the temperature hovered at about 10 degrees the town was without gas for seven hours.

The Mena City Council has given Mayor Lee McMillan authority to borrow $38,000 from the town's two banks to help finance the stand-by system. The $38,000 will be added to a $95,000 grant from the Economic Development Administration and a $57,000 grant from the Ozarks Regional Commission.

HUD Asks Suit on Housing Discrimination

By G.C. THELEN Jr.
and
KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development is seeking the first federal court challenge of a suburb's use of restrictive zoning to exclude government-assisted, low-income housing.

HUD has asked the Justice Department to file suit against the St. Louis suburb of Black Jack, Mo., for allegedly rezoning a 25-acre tract Oct. 25 to prevent construction of a 210-unit interracial apartment development.

"It is of the utmost importance to this department that the courts accept the principle that a locality cannot employ its police powers to discriminate against federally-assisted housing for the benefit of low and moderate income families," said Arthur J. Gang, an assistant HUD general counsel, in a letter to Jerris Leonard, assistant attorney general for civil rights.

Asked if the letter was a first step in the department's long-promised campaign to ensure suburban housing opportunities for black and other minority families, an aide to HUD Secretary George Romney replied: "Let's say it's a step in the right direction."

HUD officials had said earlier the push for low-income, suburban housing would begin after last week's national elections because of its political sensitivity.

There was no immediate indication whether the Justice Department would file suit.

PARENT GUIDANCE BECOMES TORTURE

Dear Helen:

How could things go so terribly wrong? Two months ago I was loved and wanted, and looking forward to marriage. Now I'm called a slut and a prostitute by my family, and a scheming seducer by my ex-boy friend's parents, and I wish I could die.

TV Techniques Saved a Life

INVER GROVE HEIGHTS, Minn. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy saved the life of his elder brother using techniques he said he learned from watching television.

Zachary Lopez said he and his brother Jesse Jr., 17, were alone at home when Jesse suffered a severe asthma attack.

When Jesse stopped breathing, Zachary said, he pounded on his brother's chest and administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

The boy said he learned the techniques from the "Marcus Welby, M.D." television program.

Jesse was taken to a hospital, treated and released.

to happen, happened. Luckily I didn't get pregnant, but we decided we couldn't wait until I was 18 to get married, so we asked my parents' permission, and it came out that we were having sexual relations.

Well, all hell broke loose. Jon's folks wanted him to go to college, so they insisted we break up, and my folks called me terrible names and accused me of sleeping with every boy I know. (Jon was the first—and last!) Even the priest made me feel miserable and guilty.

After that, we tried meeting secretly, but it didn't work, and now Jon will hardly speak to me. I guess he agrees with the rest of them that I'm no good.

No matter how I try, I'm called every bad name in the book at home. My "past" is always in front of me. Last week is the first time I went out with the girls. The first thing I heard when I got home was "Who made you this time?" and "What did he pay you?"

I'm so depressed I'm in a state of panic. My parents haven't wanted me since I can remember, but now they actually hate me. There's one more year of high school (I'm 17) and I'm afraid to be out on my own. You can't get much of a job at my age, without a diploma. Sometimes it seems like the only solution is suicide, but my religion won't let me. -- DESPERATE

Dear Desperate:

If children could be "divorced" from their parents for mental cruelty, you'd be in a foster home tomorrow!

Isn't there a relative or friend with whom you can live until you're self-supporting? You need people who will help you feel worthy—show you that your mistake wasn't so much immoral as unwise. Instead, your family seems bent on destroying you.

Why not discuss the situation with a social worker? Perhaps he can persuade these people to change their attitude; or let go of an unwanted child. -- H.

Dear Helen:

Last year I started going with a boy. We lasted three months, broke up, went back, broke up again. In all, we've split eight times, nine counting once when it lasted only a day. (We used to kid about cats having nine lives—us too.)

I did most of the "good-byes" because I liked other boys. This last time we were at a party, and my boy friend wasn't acting respectfully so I told him to get lost, and he went to another girl.

He's always made up before, but this time it's been over a month, and still no calls. I feel rotten and cry a lot, even though I have a new boy friend, sort of.

Helen, is he doing this just from spite? -- MISERABLE

Dear Mis:

He's probably doing it from "SMART!" Nine breakups would break any cat down. -- H.

Dear Helen:

I work in an office where they won't allow girls to wear dressy pants suits. What's your opinion here? -- SECRETARY

Dear Secretary:

I think the new dressy pants suits can go anywhere -- and must bosses are beginning to agree. -- H.

Singer, Wife Separated

LONDON (AP) — Singer Andy Williams and his wife Claudine Longet say they are having a trial separation even though they are sharing a suite at the Savoy Hotel. "The marriage wasn't quite what it should be," Williams told a newsman. "We were taking each other for granted. We finally decided to have a sabbatical—I guess a civilized separation is the best description for it."

It is impossible to express adequately the gratitude I feel toward those who supported me so vigorously in my race for Secretary of State. Elizabeth and I will be forever grateful for your votes, your help and the courtesy and good wishes extended to us by all the people of Hempstead County. My pledge to you is to do all that is in my power to assure that your faith and confidence has been well-placed and that your vote has been wisely cast. Gymnastics Tournament Underway

WINNIPEG (AP) — The world invitational gymnastics tournament opens today with all the makings of a world championship rematch.

The Soviet Union, Japan, Yugoslavia, France, the United States and Canada entered the three-day tournament.

East Germany did not and Japan, with the men's team and most of the world individual championships under its belt, sent a new team.

The Russians, smarting from their failure to gain a team title in the world championships in Yugoslavia last month, say it makes little difference who the Japanese send.

Baltimore Edges Past Green Bay

By BOB GREENE

Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two new wrinkles set the tone as the Baltimore Colts continued their charge toward a playoff berth Monday night by downing the Green Bay Packers, 13-10, in a nationally televised National Football League game.

One of those "new wrinkles" was unveiled on the very first play of the game when running back Sam Havrilak, a former Bucknell quarterback, took the ball on an apparent reverse and threw to wide receiver Roy Jefferson.

"It was one of those high school plays," Baltimore Coach Don McCafferty said. "We have passed up the points when a holding penalty against Green Bay gave the visitors a first down on the Packer four-yard line."

The decision appeared to have backfired, however, when Bob Jeter stepped in front of a receiver in the end zone to pick off a Unitas aerial and returned it to the Green Bay 16.

Dale Livingston capped a 71-yard Packer drive with a 3-0 yard field goal, boosting Green Bay to a 3-0 lead.

After Livingston missed a 39-yard attempt, Unitas took the Colts on an 80-yard drive that ended with Hill's 15-yard sweep around left end.

O'Brien then booted three-pointers from 42 and 29 yards before Green Bay finished the scoring when Jim Grabowski plunged one yard for the final touchdown.

It was the first TD the Baltimore defense has allowed in 13 quarters of play. The Colts' theft of four Green Bay passes raised their total of interceptions to 17 in their last four games.

The victory raised Baltimore's record to 7-1 in its bid for the American Conference's Eastern Division title. Green Bay, a member of the National Conference's Central Division, is now 4-4.

— Arkansas spent 60 minutes working on passing and pass defense Monday in preparation for Saturday's game with SMU.

"Since we didn't throw much the past two Saturdays ... we worked very, very hard on our passing and coverage," said Coach Frank Broyles.

"SMU uses everything imaginable," he said. "Therefore, you have to be ready for everything."

keep everybody honest."

Although the score was close, the game wasn't. Green Bay took an early 3-0 lead, then watched Baltimore explode to a 13-3 advantage before the Packers scored their final points with less than two minutes remaining in the game.

Havrilak's pass on the first play, which was good for 54 yards, was the only real long gainer of the day as intermittent rain forced both teams to play more conservatively than they wanted to.

Although the drive started by the long play fizzled when Jim O'Brien missed a 30-yard field goal attempt, it did set the tone of the entire game.

Baltimore was in scoring position again only moments after the missed three-pointer when safely Rick Volk picked off the first of four Don Horn passes the Baltimore defense intercepted. The Colts apparently scored on a field goal, but Baltimore passed up the points when a holding penalty against Green Bay gave the visitors a first down on the Packer four-yard line.

The decision appeared to have backfired, however, when Bob Jeter stepped in front of a receiver in the end zone to pick off a Unitas aerial and returned it to the Green Bay 16.

Notre Dame on Top, Hogs Stay 7th

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
Notre Dame completed its rise to the top of The Associated Press college football poll today, edging past Texas' defending national champions who in turn ousted Ohio State three weeks ago.

Thanks to a 46-14 rout of Pittsburgh while Texas was having its troubles beating lowly Baylor 21-14, the Fighting Irish pulled down 23 of 46 first-place votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters across the country and 822 points.

Texas received 13 first-place votes and 783 points. Ohio State, Nebraska and Michigan held onto the 3-4-5 spots with 728, 638 and 607 points, respectively. Each received three first-place votes, with the remaining one going to 11th-ranked Arizona State.

Last weekend, Ohio State defeated Wisconsin 24-7, Nebraska clobbered Iowa State 54-29 and Michigan buried Illinois 42-0.

"It's all Joe Theismann's fault," grinned Ara Parseghian when told that Notre Dame was No. 1. Theismann, ND's quarterback, became the school's all-time total offense leader Saturday.

"Seriously," Parseghian continued, "our position on the poll hasn't changed at all. That is, we feel it creates a lot of interest in college football, but it's more important to be No. 1 at the end of the season. In our case, however, I'd consider it a tribute to the great leadership of our co-captains, Jim Kelly and Larry DiNardo, and naturally, to Theismann, who is having a sensational year. He makes us click."

Notre Dame hasn't been No. 1 in the final poll since 1966.

Stanford's Rose Bowl-bound Indians topped Washington 29-22 and held onto sixth place, with Arkansas again in seventh following a 38-14 defeat of Rice.

Auburn smashed Mississippi State 56-0 and climbed from 10th to eighth while fellow Southeastern Conference member Tennessee dropped from eighth to 10th after needing a late field goal to nip South Carolina 20-18.

The only newcomer in the Top Ten was Louisiana State, up from 11th to ninth via a 14-9 squeaker over Alabama. Air Force, which was ninth a week ago, skidded to 13th when Oregon knocked the Falcons from the unbeaten ranks 46-35.

Despite the loss of Archie Manning in the third period, Mississippi downed Houston 24-13 and moved up from 13th to 12th, followed by Air Force, San Diego State, Dartmouth, Toledo, UCLA, Southern California, Oregon and Kansas State.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of LSU, Arizona State, Ole Miss, San Diego State, Toledo, UCLA, Houston, Alabama and Syracuse.

Hanging Out College Grid Wash

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the college football wash:

It wasn't a very good weekend for Eastern officials. The back judge at the Syracuse-Army game, anticipating a fair catch on a punt, blew an inadvertent whistle, negating the entire play, and had egg on his face when Army recovered the ensuing fumble near midfield.

The referee of the Yale-Penn contest got in the way of Yale's kicker on a fake punt, preventing any gain. Penn took over deep in Yale territory and promptly scored.

The umpire in the Delaware-Lehigh match was almost trampled by a Lehigh runner ... just as a Delaware defender decided to make the tackle. Ouch!

Oregon has faced some outstanding quarterbacks this season—Jim Plunkett, Dennis Dummit, Sonny Sixkiller, Bob Parker. But Coach Jerry Frei says the best player he's seen is Air Force flanker Ernie Jennings.

And on the subject of stars, Frei rates his own quarterback, sophomore Dan Fouts, right up there with the best of them. Fouts is the son of Bob Fouts, former radio-TV announcer for the San Francisco 49ers, and has spent many hours working out with John Brodie. So who is Dan's favorite athlete? Johnny Unitas.

Another Fouts booster is Coach Ben Martin of the Air Force, whose team was knocked from the unbeaten ranks Saturday thanks to Fouts' four touchdown passes.

"If Plunkett is better than that ..." gasped Martin, before his voice trailed off. Next opponent for the Air Force is Stanford ... and Jim Plunkett.

You can't blame Wisconsin for asking, "Who's Rex Kern?" Two years ago, Kern was sidelined with an injury and Ron Maciejowski completed 13 of 19 passes for 153 yards and rushed for 124 yards and two scores. Ohio State won 43-8.

Last year, same story. Maciejowski hit on nine of 13 for 139 yards and two tallies and picked up 108 yards on the ground. Final score, Ohio State 62, Wisconsin 7.

Just to prove he hadn't lost his touch, Maciejowski replaced Kern at the start of the second period Saturday and passed 54 yards to Larry Zelina on the first play, setting up State's first touchdown in a 24-7 triumph.

The fastest linebacker in the country may be Tennessee's Jackie Walker. How fast is he? "If he was with us," said South Carolina's Paul Dietzel after Tennessee's 20-18 squeaker, "he'd be a running back. It's a luxury when you can play a man like that as a linebacker."

Ed Marinaro, Cornell's national rushing leader, "doesn't clock too well in the 40-yard dash," says Coach Jack Musick. "But," he adds, "he always seems to be a little faster than the guy chasing him."

The opposing quarterbacks at Auburn come Saturday will be Gilbert (Paul of Georgia) and Sullivan (Pat of Auburn). Music, Maestro!

Ambitious Tech Already Talking Bowl

By MIKE COCHRAN

Associated Press Writer
LUBBOCK (AP) — It's bowl talk time in Lubbock. Everyone's doing it. Everyone, that is, but Texas Tech coach Jim Carlen. He says it's taboo.

"I don't ever talk bowl," he admitted. "When somebody mentions it to me, I ignore them."

But his Red Raiders, on the strength of Saturday's 22-14 triumph over Texas Christian, became a top contender for post season action.

Sun Bowl officials were on hand a couple of weeks ago when the Raiders shot down Southern Methodist. And a Southwest Conference official said the Peach Bowl is interested in Tech.

The Cotton Bowl can't be ruled out, although Arkansas and Texas are likely to determine that issue, which is "lffy" at best.

If Tech should beat Arkansas and Baylor and the Razorbacks clout Texas, the Raiders, now 7-2 and 4-1, would spend New Year's Day in Dallas.

Carlen is eloquently noncommittal. In fact, he says he's not even certain any of his players are shoe-ins for All-Southwest Conference honors.

"I'm not trying to knock our kids," he explained. "I'm just being realistic. These are my kids and I'm tickled pink. I wouldn't swap them. I'm pleased with them. They've worked their tails off...but we have no consensus all-conference player."

TCU might disagree, since Doug McCutchen, Tech's ace running back, pounded out a near-record 204 yards Saturday and announced, "I feel like I still need to improve my running."

If he does, Arkansas and Baylor are in for long afternoons.

For TCU, Saturday was a lesson in utter frustration.

"We ran straight at them, but when we got down there we didn't have the ball," mused John Ruthstrom of TCU, one of the league's premier centers. Seldom has so much been said in so few words.

The Horned Frogs shoved the football down Texas Tech's throat, but they forgot to retrieve it when they reached the goal. Twice they moved to the threshold and fumbled away the opportunity.

"I don't know what to say," said running back Raymond Rhodes, who rambled for 155 yards. "There was no way in the world we should have lost that game."

Here's how they did it: —Danny Colbert snaked 58 yards with a punt, only to fumble at the nine.

—Steve Judy, who infrequently errs, fumbled at the Tech four with 5:26 left and the Christians trailing by only four points, 19-14.

—End Frankie Grimmer latched on to a 16-yard pass from Judy, but fumbled on impact. The Raiders pounced on all three miscues. And Dickie Ingram's three field goals coupled with two touchdown passes by Charles Napper turned the tide.

"Judy's fumble wasn't the only big play," said TCU coach Fred Taylor. "That early fumbled punt return was really the turning point. And I felt if we get the touchdown at the last when we win the game."

Judy did make a lasting impression on Carlen.

"He's the best quarterback we've faced this year," said Carlen, whose Raiders have dealt with such notables as Chuck Hixon of SMU and Eddie Phillips of Texas. "I think he's the best quarterback I've seen since (Joe) Namath was at Alabama."

O.J. Likely to Miss Action This Week

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — O. J. Simpson is out of the hospital, but the chances the star half-back will see action this week are "very doubtful," Coach John Rauch of the Buffalo Bills says.

Simpson was discharged from Buffalo General Hospital Monday after overnight examination of the left knee sprain he suffered in last Sunday's National Football League game against the Cincinnati Bengals.

First Names Are Leading the Scoring

NEW YORK (AP) — Boston's National Hockey League East Division lead is as simple as 1-2-3 ... Phil Esposito, Johnny McKenzie and Ken Hodge.

Those Bruins are the first three names on the list of NHL scoring leaders released today.

Esposito, who set an all-time record with 126 points two years ago, has 22 so far this season, three more than McKenzie, the scrappy right winger.

Hodge shares third place with Montreal's Jean Beliveau at 17 points but the Boston right wing is listed ahead of the Canadiens' star because he has five goals and Beliveau has three.

Two more Boston players, veteran Johnny Bucyk and defending scoring champ Bobby Orr, complete the Bruins' domination of the scoring race. Both have 14 points and share seventh place with Detroit's Gordie Howe, Wayne Maki and Murray Hall, both of Vancouver and New York's Jean Ratelle.

Detroit's Alex Delvecchio and Bobby Hull of Chicago share fifth place with 15 points each.

Vikings Fans Really Have a Problem

By PAT THOMPSON

Associated Press Sports Writer MINNEAPOLIS ST. PAUL (AP) — Feverish Minnesota Vikings football fans have a problem.

How do you watch the National Football League powerhouse play when the 47,900-seat Metropolitan Stadium is sold out for every home game?

So if you don't have a ticket for next Sunday's game against the Detroit Lions, you can get out of the 75-mile blackout radius and watch the game on television.

Or you haggle with the scalpers.

Or you sneak in.

But Bob Sims, who owns the ushering franchise at the stadium, is ready if you're going to try to crash the gate.

Sims has you classified into groups—the scalpers, the chargers, the namedroppers and the bribers.

"We have 43 turnstiles," Sims said. "And that's the only legal way to get in. But there must be 50,000 ways people try to get into the stadium."

The scalpers.

"The most simple way is climbing the fence," Sims said. "They kind of go at it like an attack at Fort Apache. They even use the same methods—rickety ladders, barrels."

"Some guy even drove a fork lift on the property and was lifting people over the fence. He didn't charge anything. I guess he was just being neighborly. Last year they had the snow pushed up so high behind the scoreboard that a 4-year-old could have seeped into the place."

"Relatively few actually get in, maybe 50 or 75 a game. But at night the figure triples."

The namedroppers.

"The namedroppers are the first guys who try to crash the gate," Sims said. "They'll say anything, be anybody's relative. There was one guy who deserves an academy award."

"The guy said his diabetic grandfather was inside and was four hours overdue for his insulin shot. He even had the syringe with him."

The bribers.

"People will try anything. They'll even try to pay off the gatemen. We are unsympathetic."

The chargers.

"These guys do what they do out of frustration. They show up two or three hours early and try to buy a ticket. Then it's one o'clock and they don't have a ticket. They're apprehensive. There's only one thing to do—force your way in."

"Five, 10 and 20 of them at a time get together—all nice guys normally—and rush the gates. They'll knock our men down. We get one or two of them. They're charged with disorderly conduct and are slapped with a $50 fine."

Met Stadium is patrolled by Sims' 326-man crew, 43 at the gates. Policemen also are stationed at the turnstiles to blunt the chargers.

"We're not there to defend the place," Sims said. "We are there to protect the seats of people who have paid to get in."

Fort Marcy's Position Is Strengthened

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — A sensational workout by Fort Marcy has strengthened the 6-year-old gelding's position as favorite in the $150,000 Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course.

Most horse races are difficult to handicap, and setting odds on the International can be downright maddening.

Horses and riders congregate at Laurel from all over the world. The form on many foreign entries is sketchy, with a wide variation in racing conditions. In addition, horses seem to have arrived later this year than previously.

Nonetheless, a time of 59 3-5 seconds on five-eighths of a mile on the main Belmont track Monday seemed to support the 2-1 favored status announced earlier for Paul Mellon's U.S. entry.

The horse is no stranger at Laurel. Fort Marcy won the 1 1/2 mile turf contest in 1967 and finished third the next year. A victory at the 19th annual running Wednesday afternoon will put Fort Marcy's lifetime earnings over the $1 million mark.

Groundsmen at Laurel have slaved over the track and pampered it until, with the assistance of recent rain, the turf is a thick 6 inches high.

That would seem to fit the bill for England's Lorenzaccio, the third-rated entry who impressed Europeans by defeating the great Nijinsky in the Champion Stakes. English reporters here for the race, however, said the lush infield at Laurel may be softer than anything Lorenzaccio has tried this year.

At least one owner is worried that his horse might head the wrong way. "Most European racing is clockwise," said Wayne Murty, who with his twin brother Duane shipped Bacuco from Italy to the United States where racing is counter-clockwise.

Aboard Lorenzaccio will be Lester Piggott, seeking to become the second jockey to win three runnings of the International. Manuel Ycaza won twice aboard Bald Eagle and once on Fort Marcy.

Post positions for the 3:45 p.m. EST, race include: 1, Sol de Noche, Uruguay; 2, Beaugency, France; 3, Lorenzaccio; 4, Franfeluche, Canada; 5, Senador, Venezuela; 6, Cortez, West Germany; 7, Fiddle Isle, U.S.; 8, Miss Dan, France; 9, Fort Marcy; 10, Bacuco.

Alcindor Gets Better All the Time

NEW YORK (AP) — It's hard to visualize a more potent offensive force in the National Basketball Association than Lew Alcindor gave the Milwaukee Bucks last year.

But big Lew, rookie of the year and No. 2 scorer last season, is producing points at even a faster pace this time around.

According to NBA statistics released today, Alcindor, who averaged 28.8 points per game last season, leads all scorers with a 34.1 average this season. He had a career-high 53 points against Cleveland last week to solidify his edge over Boston's John Havlicek, who is averaging 29.6.

Alcindor also holds a wide edge in field goal percentage with a .621 well ahead of the .583

Jones' Injury Hardly Hurt Memphis Pros

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Things hardly looked promising for the Memphis Pros Monday night when Jimmy Jones, their leading scorer, injured an ankle and left the American Basketball Association game against Texas.

But Jones' hurt was an injury that hardly hurt the Pros. Skeeter Swift came off the bench to replace Jones and threw in 20 points, helping Memphis to a 105-91 victory over Texas.

In the only other ABA game played Monday night, Indiana beat Kentucky 130-112. The NBA was idle.

Steve Jones, Memphis' other high scoring guard, also had 20 for the Pros while Manny Leaks led the losers with 22.

It was Memphis' fifth straight victory and in the other game, Indians snapped a four-game losing streak.

Bob Netolicky poured in 30 points and Freddie Lewis had 26 as the Pacers ended a seven-game Kentucky winning streak. Rookie Dan Issel led the Colonels with 27.

maintained by Terry Dischinger of Detroit.

Alltime scoring champ Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles leads in rebounds with an average of 21 per game and player-coach Len Wilkens of Seattle is tops in assists with a 9.9 average. The free throw leader is Dick Snyder of Seattle with .897.

New Technique May Send Manning Back

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) —

What at first appeared to be the end of Archie Manning's college football career may be only a temporary setback. The super quarterback may return to action within 10 days.

That was the word from doctors following two hours of surgery Monday on the Mississippi standout's left arm, broken below the elbow Saturday.

The surgery here consisted of implanting a stainless steel compression plate in Manning's arm. It is a technique developed in Switzerland.

The doctors had said earlier the star would be in a cast for three months. That would have meant the end of action for Manning this season.

The injury came in a 24-13 victory by Ole Miss over Houston.

Manning had just been tackled when he pushed out his left hand to break his fall. "My hand didn't slide when I landed. On that stuff, (artificial turf) you don't slide," he told reporters later.

If Manning responds to treatment as expected, he may be able to play when Ole Miss meets arch rival LSU Dec. 5.

Longhorns Take on TCU Saturday

By JACK KEEVER

Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Well coach, did Texas learn its lesson against Baylor Saturday? "Ask me next Saturday," Darrell Royal replied.

Texas was bumped from the top spot in the Associated Press College Football Poll today after easing by Baylor, a 32-point underdog, 21-14 at Waco, Tex., last Saturday.

This week the Longhorns, who have won 27 games in a row for the nation's longest winning streak, go to Fort Worth to meet TCU, whose upset victories in 1959 and 1961 may have cost Texas national titles.

"Football is a contact sport and has a direct ratio to emotion," Royal told a news conference Monday. "It's amazing the gap that can be closed by the flow of adrenalin on one side and the lack of it on the other. You can sum it up in one word: upset."

"TCU will be inspired," he said. Quarterback Steve Judy "is a good operator. They have speed in the secondary. They are a team that can't be taken lightly."

Asked if Baylor's rugged battle against Texas might encourage TCU, Royal said heavy-weight boxer Sonny Liston "scared everybody in the world until one man (Muhammad Ali) tapped him" and others discovered "it wasn't so hard to do."

Asked about the blocked punt on fourth and inches at the Texas 41-yard-line, which gave Baylor a quick touchdown, Royal said he called for the punt because he was thinking first of winning, rather than Texas' ranking in the football polls. "If national polls were No. 1 we would have gone for it (the first down)," he said.

"Twenty-seven games haven't dilled my memory so much that I can't remember how distasteful it is to lose. If you're so fat, your pockets are so full, that you can't appreciate a victory, you're spoiled," Royal said. "It's silly but if I'm not careful I'll be apologizing for winning."

Royal announced several lineup changes, including the promotion of 235-pound junior tackle Carl White to the first team on defense, replacing Scott Palmer. If Ray Dowdy does not shake off a shoulder injury and hurt eye, however, Palmer will start with White.

Royal also said halfback Billy Dale has reclaimed his starting job from Terry Collins, and former tight end Tommy Woodard will replace David Richardson at linebacker. Sub quarter-back Gary Keithley and Mike Bayer will compete for a first team position in the defensive secondary, Royal said.

He excused Keithley's blocked punt as "one of those things.. you can take a player with the greatest pair of hands in the world, put him 14 yards deep and after awhile he'll drop one."

Keithley fumbled the snap-back, enabling the Baylor rush to block it, and linebacker Ray Penn snatched it and ran 25 yards for Baylor's final score.

Aronson, 26, competes as a calf roper and steer wrestler.

TORONTO (AP) — Jacques Plante will be lost to the Toronto Maple Leafs for at least a week after an injury suffered in winning, rather than Texas' ranking in the football polls. "If national polls were No. 1 we would have gone for it (the first down)," he said.

"No Pets Allowed"

When the Scotts rented a new apartment, they took it for granted that their dog Rover would be as welcome as they were. But soon after they moved in, the landlord called their attention to the "No Pets Allowed" clause in their lease.

Unwilling to give up either the dog or the apartment, the Scotts determined to fight. In a court hearing, they offered this argument to the judge: "Rover happens to be a quiet, well-behaved animal who never bothers a soul and never does any damage. Of course, if he should cause trouble, we would gladly take full responsibility. But in the meantime, enforcing this no-pets rule against us would be arbitrary and unfair."

Nevertheless, the court held they would have to abide by the rule or move out. The judge said a landlord may reasonably be concerned not only about noise, and not only about damage, but also about the likelihood that other tenants might want to keep pets too.

Generally speaking, the law gives a landlord broad discretion with regard to pets on the premises. In fact, even if no restrictions are spelled out in the lease, he may still be able to take legal action.

Thus, another landlord won an eviction order against an elderly woman who harbored no less than 25 cats in her small apartment. Even though pets were not mentioned in the lease, the court said 25 cats were—simply as a matter of common sense—"23 cats too many."

On the other hand, a landlord may lose his enforcement rights by "going easy" on a tenant for a substantial period. In one case, a landlord tried to evict a tenant after permitting him to keep a parrot for almost four years.

In these circumstances, the landlord was held to have waived the rights he had under the lease. The court said that, even though the lease plainly said "No Pets Allowed," the landlord's inaction spoke louder than words.

The Ifida Club was in session and the newest member was given the floor. He put today's hand on the blackboard and described the play:

"I sat West and opened the nine of diamonds. My partner won with the ace and returned the suit. I ruffed South's king and led back the seven of trumps."

"South won and led another diamond. I ruffed for our third trick and led the three of clubs. My partner's jack forced South's ace and South led his last diamond and was able to ruff in dummy since all my trumps were gone. Then he led dummy's king of spades and my partner played the ace. Now, all South had to do to make his contract was to draw my partner's last trump; go over to dummy with the king of clubs and discard his losing club on the queen of spades."

"A very nicely played hand," remarked the club president. "I don't quite see how it qualifies for discussion in this club."

"But, it does!" was the immediate reply. "Ifida simply discarded a spade instead of ruffing South's king of diamonds, I'da set the declarer."

"Let-the-club analyst speak," ordered the president.

The analyst rose slowly, paused for a moment of study and finally delivered his verdict. "A real gem of an Ifida. Ifida been the declarer I would have been surprised at that unusual play and would have tried to make my contract, but I would have wound up one trick short. Suppose, I led a third diamond. West would ruff and lead a trump. I would win and lead my fourth diamond. West would ruff that also and shift to a club. I would still have a trump in dummy, but there would be no way to use it as an entry and eventually I would lose a club to be one down. All other lines of play would be equally unfortunate."

British Name New Envoy to United States

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservative government has named as its ambassador to Washington an outspoken banker who says, "It will be important to explain to the Americans why we must move closer to Europe."

The government announced today that the 52-year-old Earl of Cromer, head of the great 19th century banking family of Baring, will replace journalist-politician John Freeman in Britain's No. 1 diplomatic post.

Cromer was British economic minister in Washington from 1959 to 1961 and for the next five years was governor of the Bank of England, one of the nation's most influential financial positions. His plain speaking in that post was at times a thorn to both the Conservatives who appointed him and the Laborites who inherited him in 1964. But his prestige in the international banking world was considered a major factor in the rescue of the pound early in the Laborite term.

Many observers also credit Cromer with a decisive influence in the June election that brought Prime Minister Edward Heath to power. Speaking on television, he challenged the Labor Government's claim that it had strengthened the nation's economy by wiping out the balance of payments deficit.

Cromer's appointment to Washington drew cheers in British financial circles, but the Financial Times warned that his success "will depend partly upon whether he can establish a close personal relationship with the President."

The business daily added that this would be difficult as "Mr. Nixon has close personal relationships with few people."

Cromer commented to one interviewer: "I knew President Nixon when he was vice president, and we have had several serious talks."

The new envoy told well-wishers today:

"I see the important part of my new job in the area of commerce and trade and in the dollar-sterling relationship during the Common Market monetary developments. I look forward to working to further the interests of Britain and the United States."

Government officials and bankers in both countries fear a monetary and tariff war may develop in the next few years. Many in Britain fear that the United States will soon impose quotas on textiles and perhaps some other imports. The Common Market countries would retaliate against American sales to Europe.

STITCHIN' TIME

'In' Sweater Is a Striper

By JUDY LOVE

The sweater girl of the '70s wears a saucy new kind of look this season. She's a spicy cinnamon-color stripper, sporting a sweater-vest that clearly is custom-knit.

Here's what I mean: This seasonable sleeveless sweater is pure '70s, right for snappy grandmothers or with-it granddaughters. Team this timely topper with a heathery skirt and color-co-ordinated blouse, wear it with pants and shirt or simply to brighten and warm any daytime dress.

You can knit this smart sleeveless cardigan quickly on No. 5 and No. 8 needles, and be a little daring in your colors this time. Work with rich-looking eggshell and dark olive, or choose a raspberry tone combined with cream-colored worsted. Other unusual stripper combinations include spicy cinnamon worked with beige, mauve with magenta or, in this age of Aquarians, work aqua with dark green.

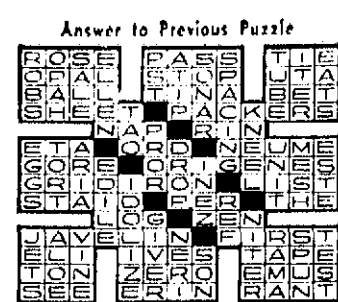

Knit this long-line, wide-ribbed, button-front cardigan in Coats and Clark's Red Heart four-ply knitting worsted, and you can get this worsted in tangle-proof, pull-out skeins. Two low-placed pockets accent the important long-line look this season.

Arkansas and Texas Lead Statistics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Texas Tech's Doug McCutchen and SMU's Gary Hammond turned in the outstanding rushing performances in last week's games and they're collecting the dividends today in the Southwest Conference statistical gatherings.

McCutchen churned out 204 yards rushing against TCU to vault into second place among league runners by TCU to vault into second place among league runners behind Texas' Steve Worster, still the leader with a 104.9 per game average.

Hammond rammed through Texas A&M for 190 yards and caught two passes for 17 yards to move into the tandem offense lead over Worster with a 121.3 average. McCutchen is third in tandem offense and Hammond is third in league rushing.

McCutchen also caught a four-yard pass to give him 208 yards in tandem offense for the game

Lamonica's Shoulder Only Bruised

OAKLAND (AP)—Daryle Lamonica's suspected shoulder separation has been diagnosed as a simple bruise, and the Oakland Raider quarterback should be ready to start again next Sunday against the Broncos at Denver.

The Coronary Care Course at Hempstead Memorial Hospital has continued to create interest and inspire learning among the nurses. Nurses from all three shifts gather together to learn how to care for the cardiac patient, to understand his heart and its functions and to initiate emergency procedures when needed. The physicians have given their time, in teaching, and encouragement where needed.

Since 1962, when the first coronary care unit was conceived and the first nurses trained, many units have been started all over the United States. The first unit in Arkansas was started in Hot Springs at St. Joseph Hospital in 1964.

Because the nurse is in constant attendance, it is recognized that the nursing care she gives is dependent upon the training she receives. With this in mind, Hempstead Memorial Hospital has sent four RN's to Little Rock for training in this specialized care. In turn, they have set up classes, totaling 36 hours, to train the other RN's and LPN's. The response has been tremendous - with an average attendance of 20 nurses per class.

Don Abbott, administrator, states that the renovation necessary to prepare a room for the monitoring equipment and coronary care unit should be completed by January, and when completed, will extend another much needed service to the community.

Student Asks Damages in Marijuana Case

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The trial on a $29,935 damage suit filed by a former student who contends that his civil rights were violated when he was suspended from Arkansas State University Jan. 26, 1967, was to continue today at Jonesboro.

A jury of nine women and three men was selected Monday to hear the suit in U.S. District Court.

William Earl Stewart, formerly of Hot Springs and now a high school English teacher at Kennett, Mo., seeks $12,000 in punitive damages and $17,935 in actual damages on grounds that the suspension damaged his reputation and delayed his entrance into the teaching profession.

The defendants are the ASU Disciplinary Committee, the Board of Trustees, Dean of Students Robert Moore and university President Carl R. Reng.

Stewart was one of 12 students suspended by the Disciplinary Committee for "conduct unbecoming a student" as a result of his alleged presence at a party at an off-campus apartment where raiding policemen said they found marijuana.

Joe R. Hamill, the student whose apartment was raided, subsequently pleaded guilty to possessing marijuana and was sentenced to three years in prison, but the other students were not prosecuted.

Stewart contends in the suit that his suspension was unreasonable and violated his right to freedom of association. He claims that he did not use marijuana at the party. He said he was not "fairly apprised" of the charges brought by the Disciplinary Committee and was not given a chance to confront any witnesses.

Bert Rotenberry of Little Rock, Stewart's attorney, said that "the law requires that ASU must show more care and concern in dealing with the education of their students."

As a result of the indefinite suspension, Rotenberry said, Stewart could not continue his education for two years.

He said Stewart tried several times to re-enter ASU, but authorities would not let him and that Stewart could not enroll at another school while the suspension was in effect at ASU. When the university lifted the suspension, Rotenberry said, Stewart enrolled in Ouachita Baptist University at Arkadelphia to complete his degree work.

Bert Smith of Jonesboro, attorney for the defendants, told the jury that Stewart was suspended under proper authority of the university.

Judge G. Thomas Eisele is hearing the suit.

Eaters of Oil Slicks Found by Scientist

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Convinced it wasn't impossible, scientists at Florida State University who set out on a mission to combat oil slicks now say they have developed potent strains of a bacteria that gobbles up oil—then quietly dies off.

"We knew that certain types of bacteria have been breaking down oil for millions of years," Prof. Carl Oppenheimer said in an interview Monday.

"So we went out into the environment and looked in likely places where oil had been spilled for a long time and came up with several promising strains."

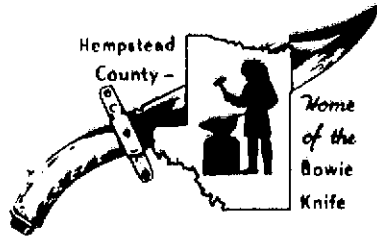

Oppenheimer said the team found their bacteria in such places as Boston Harbor—"they've been spilling oil there for 100 years, longer than in any other American port"—the Santa Barbara Channel off California and a Pennsylvania refinery.

The team took the bacteria back to Florida State and started working on methods that would make them consume oil faster.

"We developed several strains that are extremely potent," Oppenheimer said. "We gave them a culture medium that stimulated their activities. Actually, what we had to do was fortify and enhance their natural appetites."

Auto Owners, Union Talks Continue

By STEPHEN H. WILDSTROM
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Bargainers for the United Auto Workers and General Motors Corp. planned to resume contract talks today after a 17-hour negotiating session failed to produce a settlement of an eight-week-old strike.

The negotiators had met from 9 a.m. Monday until 2:10 a.m. today, breaking only for meals. GM Vice President Earl Bramblett and UAW President Leonard Woodcock had no comment as they left the bargaining suite at the GM midtown Detroit headquarters.

Highly placed sources had expressed optimism Monday that settlement was imminent. One said chances of a tentative agreement today were "50-50 ... if you want to be optimistic."

Negotiators are working under great pressure since GM has said that if agreement is not reached today, production at the world's largest industrial corporation could not resume until Dec. 1, and that any prolongation of the strike could push the startup date into the new year.

They are also working under a threat of federal intervention, posed 10 days ago by J. Curtis Counts, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, who said the government would step in if progress were not made soon.

The strike, in its 58th day today, has idled over 400,000 GM employees and thousands more at supplier firms. It has had a chilling effect throughout the economy.

While sources say GM has not made an offer to replace the one rejected by the union shortly before the strike began Sept. 15, there reportedly has been movement at the bargaining table on several key issues.

There has been no official confirmation of the reports of progress because a news blackout on the negotiations has been in effect since Oct. 30.

Woodcock was to discuss the situation today with the seven other top officers of the union, who could in turn recommend action to a meeting of the UAW international Executive Board later in the day.

In addition to the national contract, supplemental agreements must be reached at all GM's 162 facilities in the United States and Canada. Three new agreements were reached Monday, bringing the total of local settlements to 83.

Local agreements have been reached at 36 of the 54 so-called "key" plants, vital to GM's return to full production.

U.S. Generals Released by Russia

By NICK LUDINGTON
Associated Press Writer

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Two U.S. Army generals and a Turkish colonel returned to Turkey from Soviet Armenia today, three weeks after their light plane landed 12 miles across the border and they were interned.

The Turkish Foreign Ministry said the men were "healthy and in good shape."

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the generals' U.S. Army pilot also was released and would fly back their six-seat, twin-engine plane as soon as weather permitted.

A Foreign Ministry source said Turkish and Soviet generals and civilian officials negotiated at the border town of Kilisekci for nine hours, presumably working out details of the release. The officers were freed at 7 a.m. and were driven to Kars, 40 miles southwest of the Soviet frontier, to take a

Memories Are the Best Investments, They Do Not Rise, Fall Much

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) —

Memories are the best investments. They do not rise or fall like stock market shares at the whim of a current market. They keep an enduring value, and will be worth as much or more a decade from now as they are today.

But memories are like dollars in one respect. The more you pile them up, the richer you are. And your memory hoard is pretty extensive if you can look back and remember when—

The best way a man could impress people with his dignity was to wear a stiffly starched white collar.

A successful fly watcher was one who, on a windy day, got a glimpse of the top of a woman's high-buttoned boots.

The age of efficiency began when they got rid of the conductor on streetcars, and the motorman had to start collecting passenger fares.

Housemaids got less for a week's work than they now do for a day's—and they usually courted when spoken to by the master or mistress of the house.

Most county courthouses were so new that the clock in their towers still told the proper time.

The height of revolt on a college campus was a midnight panty raid on a sorority house by a bunch of April-intoxicated fraternity men.

Skiing was largely a sport enjoyed by foreigners, and it was done on snow, not water.

About all most lads knew about women was what they could learn by watching the girls' high school basketball team play in middies and bloomers.

Thugs hesitated to snatch the purse of a woman at night for fear of being skewered by an eight-inch steel hatpin.

Husbands hated to go out for an evening because, instead of simply zippering a wife up the back, he had to spend half an hour lacing her into a whale-bone corset.

When the doctor made a house call, the small children in the family tried to peek into his little black bag to see if it contained a tiny baby—for that was where babies came from in those days.

If you put away only $1 a week in a Christmas Club savings plan, you could go on a real buying splurge at Santa Claus time.

A fellow thought he was downright lucky if he had a job with a firm that gave him one full week's vacation a year with pay.

Those were the days—good and bad, sad and glad, but greatly alive—remember?

Heavy Attack in Cambodia by Enemy

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The heaviest North Vietnamese-Viet Cong attacks in two months threw the Cambodian government's northern front into disarray today and cut it off from Phnom Penh.

Two towns, an airport and two bridges were hit. Thousands of reinforcements trying to reach the battle zone were reported blocked by destruction of a large bridge during the night.

A Cambodian communique said North Vietnamese troops attacked the airport at Kompong Cham, the country's third largest city which is 47 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and simultaneously made assaults against the district capitals of Prey Touting Troeung and Skoun, on a line running west of Kompong Cham some 32 miles.

A spokesman said the government troops at Troeung were nearly surrounded and in danger of being overrun before they fled in confusion, half to the east and half to the west.

Skoun, 35 miles north of Phnom Penh at the junction of Highways 6 and 7, came under attack for the second time in less than 24 hours. Earlier Monday, before dawn, North Vietnamese troops had fought their way to within 50 yards of the Cambodian army's command post before they were driven out.

Fighter-bombers flew heavy strikes against enemy assault formations along Highway 7, which was closed between Skoun and Kompong Cham, 25 miles to the east.

One bridge near Troeung was destroyed. A second span, on Highway 6 and 25 miles north of Phnom Penh, was reported knocked out by mines. This blocked the advance of reinforcements sent north from Phnom Penh, but the spokesman expressed confidence they would get through.

The action coincided with the 17th anniversary of Cambodia's independence from French rule. The spokesman said the attacks could have been a propaganda move or could have been aimed at forcing the Cambodian command to divert troops from its 20,000-man task force at Taing Kauk, 15 miles north of Skoun.

He said the government would not pull out of the Taing Kauk area.

Tax Exemption to Private School

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —

The Internal Revenue Service has granted tax-exempt status to a private school organization in Mississippi County.

Emmett E. Cook Jr., assistant district director of the IRS at Little Rock said the Delta Education Foundation, Inc., a nonprofit corporation formed by a group of Mississippi County residents, was granted the tax-exempt status on the basis of a statement by the foundation that it would not practice racial discrimination in its admission policy.

Tax-exempt status means that persons who donate money to the foundation can deduct the contributions from their income tax returns. The designation also means the foundation will not have to pay income tax.

Charles de Gaulle was praised by most of his contemporaries for his unswerving devotion to France, but many found him arrogant and unbending—a man who could be extremely difficult and often was.

Those who dealt with him during the trying years of World War II, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman, gave their impressions of the French leader in books written in later years.

One who knew De Gaulle well was U.S. diplomat Robert Murphy, President Roosevelt's personal representative in North Africa. As such, he had much to do with arranging the famous Casablanca "shotgun wedding" between De Gaulle and French Gen. Henri Giraud.

In his book "Diplomat Among Warriors," Murphy recorded these impressions:

"From the point of view of De Gaulle, the entire Casablanca setup was all wrong for a settlement between Frenchmen. He was offered a formula which he considered the handiwork of Roosevelt, Churchill and their agents. To accept it was to acknowledge before the world that France no longer was a great power—which De Gaulle never for one moment has admitted at any time in his life."

"Churchill and Roosevelt left Casablanca confident that they had fitted De Gaulle into a subordinate place, whereas De Gaulle actually set in motion a series of events which soon would confound and humiliate his French enemies in Africa, would give him absolute control of French administrations and would cause persistent worries for Eisenhower as long as he remained in the Mediterranean—in fact, would have disturbing after-effects which Eisenhower would have to consider right up to his retirement in 1961 as president of the United States."

These comments were by Eisenhower and others about De Gaulle.

Eisenhower in "Crusade in Europe," 1948:

"I personally liked General De Gaulle, as I recognized in him many fine qualities. We felt, however, that these qualities were marred by hypersensitivity and an extraordinary stubbornness in matters which appeared inconsequential to us ..."

Former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in "Speaking Frankly," 1947:

Again Going Toward Cuba

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials are playing down the movement of two Soviet ships toward the Cuban port where the United States recently charged the Russians were building a submarine base.

"I wouldn't want to characterize any concern. I'm just advising where they are," said Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Freidheim in reporting Monday that a submarine tender and a salvage tug were again nearing Cienfuegos.

Moscow repeatedly has denied it is building a sub base in Cuba, but the constant presence of the two ships in the Caribbean has otherwise remained a mystery.

The Pentagon Sept. 25 reported evidence of construction on what it said could be a Russian sub base, and the White House responded by drawing a parallel with the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, warning of serious consequences.

But since then the administration has tried to keep the controversy over the episode in a low

Capsule, Not Candy Caused Child's Death

DETROIT (AP) — A 5-year-old boy who died of a heroin overdose apparently received the drug in a capsule and not from spiked malt-cream candy, police investigators say.

Inspector Robert A. Slotke, chief of the homicide bureau, said Monday that the boy, Kevin Toston, apparently swallowed the capsule while visiting an uncle's home.

Slotke said no warrants were being sought and police did not know how the child obtained the capsule.

Initially, police said Kevin got the fatal dose when he ate Halloween trick-or-treat candy which had been sprinkled with the narcotic.

Slotke said the investigation disclosed an unidentified person sprinkled heroin on Kevin's Halloween candy later to hide the source of the deadly dose.

Previously the boy's mother had said that Kevin went to sleep on the night of Nov. 2 at his uncle's home after eating some candy. When he could not be awakened the next morning, he was hospitalized. The boy never regained consciousness and died Friday.

Slotke said the case remains under investigation.

PARIS (AP) — Charles de Gaulle is dead in his 80th year. The 6-foot-4 general who led France back from the ashes of World War II defeat and then saved it again from the chaos of 1958, succumbed Monday night to a ruptured aneurism, a circulatory ailment. His death did not become known until today, and France plunged into mourning.

Far removed from the military and political battles that immortalized him, De Gaulle died at his country home in Colombey-les-deux-eglises, where the funeral will be held Thursday with a minimum of pomp in keeping with his wish. No official government representative will be present, but at the same time France will have a day of national mourning with simultaneous services in Notre Dame Cathedral and all the nation's churches. All the church bells, in France's magnificent cathedrals and in tiny chapels, will peal out their message.

A little before 7 p.m. De Gaulle stepped out of his office in his country retreat, put both hands below his waist, and told his wife Yvonne, "Oh, how it hurts."

He slipped to the floor, and a servant immediately called the doctor and the Rev. Claude Jaugey, the village priest. Father Jaugey said that when he arrived he was hurried to the second-floor room where he saw De Gaulle stretched out on the floor, fully dressed in a dark suit.

Father Jaugey said De Gaulle was not dead, but seemed to be unconscious.

"He was suffering terribly," the priest said.

An earlier account reaching Paris had said De Gaulle was seated in an armchair waiting for the evening television newscast when he died.

The priest said that when he left the De Gaulle home the former president was dead. Father Jaugey was asked to promise to remain silent.

The nation's tribute to its longtime leader will be in accordance with his wishes.

"I do not wish a national funeral," he said in a document dated 1952. "No president, no ministers, no parliamentary committees, no representatives of government organs. Only the French military service may take part officially ... No speech will be pronounced."

At Key Biscayne, Fla., the Florida White House announced that President Nixon will fly to Paris Thursday to attend a state memorial service for De Gaulle in the Cathedral of Notre Dame.

De Gaulle escaped assassination attempts three times, and for many it was hard to believe that he had died peacefully.

Colombey-les-deux-eglises—Colombey of the two churches—is 16 miles east of Paris. President Georges Pompidou will go there Wednesday to pay his personal tribute.

The last of the great leaders of the European war in 1939-45 had lived in retirement in the village since he resigned from the presidency in April 1969. He had been writing his memoirs.
